LABOR SPURNS LAST DEMAND OF AGITATOR

Union Men Resent Efforts of Carpenters' Head to Re-open Ship Trouble.

By JOHN L. MURRAY.
Discredited by his own fellow-unionists, out of court with the Navy and Shipping Board, William L. Hutcheson, president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, who called the recent strike of the carpenters in the shipyards, last night prepared what every official, government and union, believes will be his obituary as a union labor leader.

New Demands. He is drafting a new demand on the President to go over the heads of the Navy Department, the United States Shipping Board and the International presidents of union labor who flatly refused to make the special concessions he still insists on. His manner last night, as he interrupted his speech with other brotherhood officers over their demand on the President, was one of preparing for battle; his words a bold prediction of national disaster.

"Will the shipyard woodworkers quit and stop shipbuilding? Well, the big trouble won't come unless the President turns us down. That'll be up to him!" But there will not be any battle, any tying up of ship yards, and national disaster through stopping work on the bridge to Pershing; there will be nothing but a general ignoring henceforth of Hutcheson's demands by the American Federation of Labor, the Navy and the Shipping Board. This is the expression of all three factors concerned. So far as they are concerned, Hutcheson's day in court is done.

His intimated threat that forty thousand wood workers will stop work if the President does not stultify the decision of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy; Charles A. Pies, general manager of the emergency fleet corporation of the Shipping Board; and Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, by granting the concession of union absolutism that they have refused, leaves naval and ship board officials less than indifferent.

Will Not Strike. From high in the councils of the nation's shipbuilding program came last night the statement that there will be no strike, because there are 50,000 carpenters idle, according to Hutcheson's own assertions, more than are needed in shipyards, and because his own men are not behind him in a fight on the government's most vital need.

These special privileges he asks are that he be allowed to put his own representative on the Shipbuilding Labor Adjustment Board, created by the agreement with the unions to fix wages, hours and conditions of employment, but that he make no agreement to abide by decisions concerning conditions of employment, unless they conform to union conditions. Also, that he be allowed to have a representative with each employment agency of the Department of Labor to put on applicants and that employment of carpenters be operated only through these agencies.

The attitude of the labor leaders at the conference that rejected these demands was expressed at the meeting, variously, in this wise: "We cannot afford to hamper the government in its shipbuilding now. The union ship must remain a closed question till the end of the war, and every strike, though we reserve the right to strike, must go no further than arbitration. The agreement we have now with the Navy and Shipping Board is as near now to a union agreement as the law allows."

"The carpenters never should have struck. Hutcheson's talk of forcing an alternative of government ownership is madness; it's a choice between waiting till after the war for the strengthening of the union and giving conscription of labor for government control of the men might mean conscription, and that would mean death to unionism for fifty years at least."

Food Board Confers With Bread Bakers

Representatives of more than a dozen of the largest rye bakers in New York city conferred yesterday with officials of the United States Food Administration. They discussed the present and probable supply of rye, prices and substitutes. No definite steps were taken by the Food Administration to assist the rye bakers.

The matter will be taken up with the New York Federal Food Board before the Food Administration announces any definite policy in regard to the use of rye by commercial bakers.

GIRLS! TRY IT! HAVE THICK, WAVY, BEAUTIFUL HAIR

Every Particle of Dandruff Disappears and Hair Stops Coming Out.

Draw a Moist Cloth Through Hair and Double Its Beauty at Once.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after "Dandergine hair cleanser." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Dandergine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Dandergine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yet really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it, surely invest a few cents in a bottle of Dandergine at any drug store or toilet counter, and just try it.

LEW KELLY TELLS OF U-BOAT TERRORS

Gaiety Comedian Has Experienced Real Attacks of Germans.

Submarines make the trip to England interesting and air raids contribute greatly to the interest of London, life, according to Lew Kelly, star of the Bohemian show of the Gaiety. "Everybody on shipboard was in mighty good spirits going over. But

LEW KELLY.

We certainly heaved a sigh of relief when a fleet of ten or twelve little torpedo boats came out to escort us in and drive away any lurking 'subs.' "When we arrived in London, we were disturbed every once in a while by annoying air raids. I never went out to watch these interesting occurrences. The cellar appealed to me as a most comfortable and desirable place to spend the rest of the evening. Mr. Kelly was the star of a fall revue at the Empire Theater in Leicester Square, London. The dignified Pall Mall Gazette said "The unchanging address of Mr. Kelly is screamingly funny. He is a genius who has no exact counterpart on the English stage."

At every performance Mr. Kelly steps out of his stage character and tells the audience of his experiences in war-ridden London.

Camp Meade, March 6.—After a twenty-two day hunger strike, Jacob Rose, of Philadelphia, stationed at Camp Meade, radical Socialist, and conscientious objector, who does not eat, is eating and drinking again in the base hospital of the mobilization camp.

Rose did not mind courting starvation while he had a number of fellow "C. O.'s" around him, but when his audience consisted of the cold staring doctors, in colorless white, and the sentiment existing was, "If he wants to die by starvation, it's not the government's fault"—well, he changed his mind a bit.

He is now lying in the psychiatric ward of the hospital, and looks fondly for the nurse who brings in his tea and toast in the morning. And he is eating again.

MUCH AMMONIA IS SAVED BY ICE CO.

New York Concern Reduces Consumption 60 Per Cent.

In the three winter months—December, January and February—New York ice manufacturer saved 22,864 pounds of ammonia. This is the first definite report of savings that has yet been received by the United States Food Administration, which is endeavoring to decrease the consumption of ammonia in order that our limited supply may be made to meet the absolute needs of munitions manufacturers and of ice and refrigerating plants.

In a letter to the Food Administration the Knickerbocker Ice Company quoted figures to show that its conservation efforts have been successful. In December, 1916, and January and February, 1917, it used 36,671 pounds of ammonia. In the three months of this past winter it used only 13,807 pounds—a net saving of more than 60 per cent.

The Food Administration believes that if the experience of the Knickerbocker Ice Company is typical of the industry the actual needs of the country may be met without undue curtailment of ice consumption or of refrigeration.

Y. M. C. A. FUTURE DIRECTORS OF REVERAL HOME

Sunday Tabernacle Rechristened for War Work with "Rody" Star Performer.

Billy Sunday's famous Tabernacle was re-christened last night. Henceforth it will be known as "The Liberty Hut."

William Knowles Cooper, director of the Young Men's Christian Association made this announcement at a monster song rally held there last night.

Rody Was Guest.

"Rody," the popular chorister of the Billy Sunday party, was the guest of honor at the mammoth rally when the three choirs which have been singing during the eight weeks of the Sunday campaign allied themselves for the purpose of a permanent organization under the direction of Percy S. Foster, the favorite local chorus leader.

There were so many features and so much fun, which broke out so continuously and in so many varied spots that it would be high impossible to chronicle everything, but there is much that must be told about Rody. John Alden Brewster, one of Billy's two extraordinary stunts pulled off by this pair.

Knowing that they might not again have the pleasure of Rody's presence for a long, long time, the audience ended him into going through his entire repertoire.

He sang solo, he sang in duet, he sang in a trio, he pulled off a number of first-class sleight-of-hand tricks, and last, but far from least, he recited a number of "soul" poems and in way of conclusion asked for trail-hitters. And the best part of it all, is that he got them: More than a score answered his call and "took their stand for Jesus Christ." All sort of liberties were taken during the course of the program, which all contributed to a homelike atmosphere.

Sings Old Songs.

In the first place Rody suggested that "Brighten the Corner" be modulated by dividing the married people and the single people. This made a hit.

Rody had not forgotten to bring his trombone along and he scored heavily when he played "The Rosary" and "A Perfect Day."

He called upon Mr. Cooper to explain to the audience what big things were going to be done in the Tabernacle for Uncle Sam by the great Y. M. C. A. work which will be carried on there.

Mr. Cooper explained that "The Liberty Hut," after alterations had been made, would be the largest similar structure in the United States and would rival a similar one now in operation in London.

He explained how there would be maintained a spacious hall and how a portion would be partitioned into useful dormitories, shower baths, and "gym" quarters.

To Make Changes.

Work will be begun on these improvements as soon as it is possible to get proper material and labor. Fred Base, who has acted as postmaster at the Tabernacle; C. B. A. Bryant, of the American University Camp, and Rev. William Asher, husband of Mrs. Asher, of the Billy Sunday camp, were named as three men who will take a prominent part in the work of "The Liberty Hut."

Mr. Cooper emphasized the fact that the cafeteria, which has been run in

MAY ORGANIZE NEW SCIENTIST CHURCH

Members of First Church Has Outgrown Its Hall.

What will probably be the organization meeting of a Third Church of Christ, Scientist, will be held Saturday night in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, at Columbia road and Euclid street northwest.

The hall of the First Church Scientist Church was tendered Tuesday night to the use of any group of church members wishing to organize a third church in this city. The capacity of the First Church had been overtaxed for several months and establishment of a third church was suggested.

Several members have decided to hold such a meeting Saturday night, at which it is probable that real steps of organizing the church will be taken. Location of the new church will probably be in the downtown district.

FLORISTS' CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

Members Pledge Thousand Dollars for War Savings Stamps.

Officers who will guide the affairs of the Florist's Club of Washington were chosen at the annual meeting held recently at Schmidt's Hall, 712 Twelfth street. Those elected were: D. D. Blackstone, president; Harry B. Lewis, vice president; William F. Gude, treasurer. Members of the board of directors are Adolph Gude, George Field, Theodore Dietrich, George H. Cooke, Davis Bissett and William F. Gude.

Ways to increase production of prize-winning flowers were discussed at length, and it is expected that Washington's growers of hot-house flowers will devote more attention to bringing out first-prize flowers.

Members pledged themselves to subscribe a sufficient amount of war savings certificates to put the organization into the Thousand-Dollar War Savings Club. More than the required amount was immediately subscribed, and the baby bonds proved so popular that two more of the clubs will be formed, and a portion of the club's funds will be invested in these certificates. The pledges to the club are additional to purchases to be made by the members through other channels.

Mouth-Organ Band of 1,000 Is Forming at Camp Meade

Little Instruments "Made in Germany"—But the Kaiser Wouldn't Want to Hear the Tunes They'll Play.

Camp Meade, Md., March 6.—A band composed of 1,000 harmonica players is being organized among the men of the division by Kenneth Clark, camp song leader. So many soldiers show ability on this instrument that the war department commission on training camp activities is considering the organizing of a mouth organ band in each division. One thing that should add to the charm of such a band is the fact that the harmonica these days is rapidly becoming as extinct as the dodo. These small reed instruments are manufactured in Germany, and the only ones remaining are those that were imported here before the outbreak of the war. Even this stock seems to have been bought up and are selling for six or seven times their cost prior to the war. So, apparently, in a short while the mouth organ will be no more unless some humanitarian American corporation starts to manufacture them, which seems hardly probable in these days when non-essential industries are being weeded out. However, ever since men first gathered together in groups, mouth organs have been considered highly essential to harmony, so it is barely possible that the government may permit their manufacture or even encourage it. The mouth organ is the oldest known form of musical instrument, even antedating the flute. Its sound producing properties are twenty reeds, through which the breath is blown, and they bear a marked resemblance to the pipes of the ancient shepherds. It is, in fact, a lineal descendant of and works upon the same principles as the well known "Pipes of Pan."

Oberfehn, a German who had been in an English internment camp, from which he escaped here in 1915, was arrested by Federal agents today, charged with compiling figures and maps regarding America's present military strength.
